INSTRUCTIONS TO VISITORS.

---

With a view to promote a uniformity of action consistent with the original design and present responsible duties of this Association, the following instructions to Visitors are respectfully submitted by the Ladies' Board of Managers, convened 1st Month, 2d, 1842.

ARTICLE I.

You will confine yourselves exclusively to the particular Section appointed you, visiting the families thereof once in two weeks, (if practicable,) and as much oftener as circumstances may seem to require, with the view of promoting their improvement—a report of which should be rendered, in writing, once a month, at the District meeting to which you belong. In case of inability to perform your regular duties, call in the aid of the District Committee.

ARTICLE II.

Endeavour to ascertain the number of families requiring aid, and the individuals composing them; their means of subsistence, the amount of rent paid, the period of their residence in the District; the ages of their children, and whether they attend school; making it your primary object to secure their confidence, by conducting yourselves towards them in such a manner as to prove that you are actuated by motives of benevolence, and have their welfare in view.

ARTICLE III.

You will be particular to encourage habits of industry and cleanliness, both of houses and persons, amongst the poor. Endeavor to make them sensible of the absolute importance of employment, and aid them in obtaining it. Cherish a spirit of independence, pointing out to them the advantage of Fuel Saving Funds and other beneficial institutions, encouraging weekly deposits for rent and other purposes.

ARTICLE IV.

It is needful to bear in mind the prevalence of imposture, and it is to be hoped that the frequency of your visits will greatly facilitate its detection. Whilst, therefore, avoiding every appearance of harshness, or want of feeling for the misery which attracts your notice, use every precaution to guard against the misapplication of charitable aid, to objects of pretended distress, or to those who may be receiving adequate relief from other sources.

ARTICLE V.

In case of the removal of a family into your Section who may solicit aid, it is recommended that you should call upon the Visitor in whose Section they have formerly resided, for information respecting them: but in no case communicate to them the names of individuals who may have informed you respecting their habits, circumstances, &c.

ARTICLE VI.

Where you meet with sickness and want, you will inquire, whether there is any medical or other attendance ; whether relief is afforded by any Religious or Charitable Society, and what assistance is needed. Provide yourself with information respecting the nearest Dispensary, and when practicable, draw upon existing charitable societies for their aid—a list of which may be procured at the office of this Association. Where it can be done with equal advantage, provide the articles needed, in preference to giving money ; and be careful to render an account of all expenditures to your Secretary ; no Visitor neglecting this duty, being entitled to draw upon the funds of the Association.

ARTICLE VII.

Be particularly attentive to the infirm and aged. Sympathise with the widow, and have compassion on the fatherless, endeavoring to promote the general good, by pointing out the advantages of education, the duty of religiously observing the Sabbath-day—the importance of attending a place of worship, and the value of the sacred Scriptures.

ARTICLE VIII.

It is generally desirable that Visitors go two together in their Sections, especially amongst families not heretofore under care. In cases of any difficulty, consult the judgment of an experienced Visitor, thus avoiding the censure of the public, and the reproaches of the undeserving poor.

ARTICLE IX.

Use every exertion in your power to advance the cause of Temperance, by imparting judicious advice, and the circulation of tracts and other useful publications on the subject.

ARTICLE X.

No Visitor is authorized to make public collections on behalf of the Association, though at all times privileged to solicit from private charity contributions for interesting cases under care.

ARTICLE XI.

Neglect not your Sections in the summer season, but visit them as faithfully as in the winter, urging the necessity of deposits for fuel, rent, &c., thereby making yourselves better acquainted with the habits and occupation of those under your immediate notice.

ARTICLE XII.

Provide yourself with a blank Schedule, which you will fill up, and accompany with a notice of any particular circumstance tending to illustrate character, evince improvement, or call for particular advice ; with such observations on the state of your Sections as may be useful. Record the names of those you visit, and the relief afforded them. Upon your resignation, hand it over to the Visitor who may succeed you, with such remarks as may be considered necessary.
